

Today's News - October 18, 2002

The list of finalists in competition to design the Pentagon Memorial to 9/11 doesn't include even one "starchitect." – WTC victims' relatives unhappy with developments there. – Plans for an Australian memorial in London leave two Australian architects "out on their ear." – A report on America's most sprawling areas; there are cheers and jeers from locals. – Project for Public Spaces' "endangered place of the month" is in Salt Lake City. – A call for British urban regeneration projects to include more sustainable goals; and CABE takes historic preservation seminars on the road. – Two American firms win competition to design university in Beirut. – Here's your chance to buy a dilapidated historic building on Auckland's waterfront - and make it part of the big plans for a new waterfront "village." – The Royal Botanical Gardens in Ontario will be looking for an architect soon.

To subscribe to the free daily newsletter click here

[Finalists Selected for Pentagon Memorial \[images\]](#)- ArchNewsNow

9/11 Victims' Relatives Upset About New Ground Zero Design Rules: Civic Alliance is planning on recruiting an independent group of architects to draw up a set of alternative schemes for the site...- New York Post

Memorials and roundabouts: A memorial in England for Australians who died in joint war efforts is in danger of falling victim to Australian bureaucracy - Robert Watson Associates and Robert Woodward...are out on their ear- Sydney Morning Herald

Smart Growth America report: Riverside-San Bernardino, Calif., is nation's most sprawling area- Environmental News Network

Swallowed by Urban Sprawl: Relocating to Inland Empire puts people in the midst of what they fled- Los Angeles Times

Misplaced generosity threatens to disfigure one of Salt Lake City's most beloved places: Gallivan Center- Project for Public Spaces

Environment Agency claims British regeneration policy is not sustainable- The Architects' Journal (UK)

CABE takes Building in Context seminars on the road...to promote quality design in sensitive and historic areas- The Architects' Journal (UK)

[American University of Beirut campus designs turn to green ideals: Project illustrates harmony of architecture with its environment - Vincent James Architects; James Carpenter Design Associates \[images\]](#)- Daily Star (Lebanon)

Historic harbour buildings go on sale: form the skeleton of a new waterfront "village" ...based around the \$211 million Britomart transport project. - Jasmax- New Zealand Herald

Royal Botanical Gardens' \$45-million expansion will be a 'true landmark': will seek architects in about three months' time- Burlington Post (Canada)

[And the Winners Are: AIA Chicago Design Excellence Awards \[images\]](#)
ArchNewsNow

Note: Pages will open in a new browser window.
External news links are not endorsed by ArchNewsNow.com.
Free registration may be required on some sites.
Some sites may expire after a few days.

Yesterday's News

© 2002 ArchNewsNow.com